Project Syndicate was established in the early 1990s as an initiative to assist newly independent media in post-communist Central and Eastern Europe. Expansion to Western Europe, Africa, Asia, and the Americas quickly followed, as publishers worldwide sought access to the views of leading thinkers and policymakers on the day’s most important global issues.

Our rapid growth has been guided by rigorous editorial independence and a simple credo: all people – wherever they live, whatever their income, and whatever language they use – deserve equal access to the highest-quality analysis, from a broad range of perspectives, of the events, trends, and forces shaping their lives.

Project Syndicate thus provides an invaluable global public good: ensuring that news media in all countries, regardless of their financial and journalistic resources – and often in challenging political environments – can offer readers original, engaging, and thought-provoking commentaries by the world’s leading innovators in economics and finance, politics, health, technology, and culture.

In fact, without Project Syndicate, most of the publications we serve would be unable to secure comparable content. Project Syndicate’s unparalleled range and caliber of opinion, our ability to provide a analysis of breaking news, and our commitment to focusing minds on complex topics driving the news – from development to sustainability, among many others – now benefits some 300 million readers of more than 500 media outlets in over 150 countries.
Project Syndicate constitutes the only truly global forum for informed, high-level debate on the world’s most urgent policy challenges. Our media partners include the world’s most influential agenda-setters in both the developed and emerging worlds.
Diverse, Distinguished Contributors

Project Syndicate’s contributors include Nobel laureates, heads of state, civic activists, business leaders, and academic specialists in fields ranging from economics and politics to the natural sciences and cultural studies. Hailing from all over the world, PS contributors bring to bear the credibility, experience, and perspective that readers demand. Our ability to reach readers worldwide is unparalleled. In 2022, Project Syndicate commentaries were published more than 18,000 times around the world.

Only Project Syndicate can consistently tap the most insightful and sought-after voices – from Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Americas – to provide trenchant, authoritative analysis of the issues commanding global attention and promote viable solutions to the world’s urgent problems. As a result, we often play an agenda-shaping role for other news organizations.

Our Syndication Service

Project Syndicate enables the world's most respected publications to offer analysis by distinguished authors on a wide range of topics. By working with Project Syndicate, you would raise the editorial bar you meet for your readers, deepening their understanding of the forces and trends shaping our world.

Access

Publishers can access Project Syndicate content in a variety of ways:
- in their email inbox
- via the Editors' Intranet (EdNet) web portal
- through their own content-management systems (thanks to direct integration)

Project Syndicate partners also gain access to high-resolution author photos. And in order to facilitate editorial planning, we deliver weekly advisories, which let publishers know which commentaries are forthcoming.

Attribution

Publishers may use their house style for attribution of Project Syndicate content, provided they follow two guidelines:
- All publications of Project Syndicate commentaries must include our copyright and the author byline we have provided.
- All digital publications of Project Syndicate commentaries must hyperlink to our website and implement our licensing code.

Choose Authors and Topics

Project Syndicate will create a custom commentary feed for your publication, based on your editorial needs and preferences.

Enrich Your Readers' Experience

With more than 100 original commentaries produced each month, Project Syndicate would greatly enhance the variety, scope, and value of your offerings.
Project Syndicate distributes all commentaries in English and up to 16 other languages: Arabic, Chinese, Czech, Dutch, French, German, Hindi, Indonesian, Italian, Kazakh, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, and Spanish. We devote substantial resources to translating our commentaries. We know that these translations—which we often provide to publishers free of charge—enables our partners to publish our commentaries faster, thus encouraging debate on a global scale.

Our members also translate our commentaries into other languages, including Bengali, Farsi, and Greek. In 2022, Project Syndicate commentaries appeared in 66 languages in 156 countries.
More Than Just Commentaries

Project Syndicate produces a wide range of editorial offerings to complement publisher’s commentary feeds. These include:

- long-form commentaries on the issues and topics shaping the world
- wide-ranging interviews with preeminent thought leaders
  - book reviews
  - expert predictions
- short-form analysis of the day’s most pressing questions

Ask us how to gain access to these offerings.
Our special-edition quarterly magazines feature the content you expect from Project Syndicate—incisive commentary, thought-provoking interviews, insightful book reviews, and concise predictions—in an eye-catching format.

From thematic editions centered on vital topics like finance and sustainability to our annual fourth-quarter issue, The Year Ahead, PS Quarterly helps readers make sense of the world.

Our partners can secure exclusive rights to publish full issues, including striking images and expertly designed layouts, or license a selection of our magazine offerings. Ask us about magazine-publishing opportunities in your market.
